POOLS Paradise

A Farce by Philip King

Tuesday 20th-Saturday 24th November 2001

Gambling leads to a life of secrets and little white lies

THE latest offering from the East Bridgford Drama Group is the comedy Pools Paradise by Philip King.

Although the characters are the same as in his comedy See How They Run, it is not a sequel to the play, says the group's publicity officer Valerie Allen.

The farce centres around the Rev Lionel Toop's family.

His wife, Penelope has been in a football pool syndicate with her maid, Ida, and friend Willie Briggs.

When they win, Penelope tries to keep the money a secret but all hell breaks loose when he finds out.

It will be staged in East Bridgford Village Hall from Tuesday until Saturday, November 24 at 7.30pm.

Directed by Peter Salter, the cast comprises Jean Starbuck as Penelope

Toop, Kate Thornburrow as Ida, Michael Clark as the Rev Lionel Toop, Valerie Allen as Miss Skillon and Clive Allen as Willie Briggs.

Len Jackson as the Rev Arthur Humphrey and Jeff Casterton as the Bishop of Lax also star.
